

Save the Date!

Spread the Word!

Sangamon Watershed Celebration – November 10, 2018

The 2018 Sangamon Watershed Celebration will be held on Saturday, November 10, at the National Sequestration Education Center building on the campus of Richland Community College in Decatur.

The day will be packed with a variety of enjoyable, educational and community-building activities and speakers.

9 AM – 12PM: Family-oriented displays and activities

12 – 1 PM: Lunch available for purchase

1 – 5 PM: Concurrent sessions on topics related to local history, recreation, and environmental stewardship

5 – 7:30 PM: Dinner ($15 per person payable on-line or at the door) followed by a presentation and discussion of the documentary film “The Sangamon River: A Sense of Place” led by UIS Professor Emeritus Charles Schweighauser

Please save the date and plan to join us to celebrate the history and natural resources of the Sangamon River Watershed on November 10.

And please help us to spread the word by sharing this flyer with your family, friends, and social networks.

=====

Watch for updates on the Agricultural Watershed Institute & Sangamon River Alliance websites:

<http://agwatershed.org/> <http://sangamonriveralliance.org/>

If your organization would like to cosponsor the event or provide a display or activity, please contact Steve John, sfjohn@agwatershed.org; Melody Arnold, melody2a@hotmail.com; or Scott Hays, sphays12@gmail.com and we will be happy to make arrangements.

